Session Description/Objectives Expected Outputs/Outcomes	The virtual scientific conference which will be showcased as a satellite session for North Luzon Cluster is anchored on the subtheme " Strengthening the National Health Research System's Capacity for Response and Research. The topics which will be covered during this convocation shall: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Assist the various members of the different consortia to institutionalize their Research Ethics Committees in order to address the very small number of Research Ethics Board which gained recognition by the Philippine Health Research Ethics Board considering gaps or challenges of each institution in setting up their own REBs;</li> <li>2. Familiarize the participants with Qualitative Research Studies which is a viable and effective tool for policy translation;</li> <li>3. Strengthen health research networks and partnerships among the different institutional members of the consortium and sustain resilience amidst the challenges of the pandemic;</li> <li>4. Capacitate researchers in response and research on health and determine what needs to be done to calibrate scope, methods, and analyses of data but not sacrificing the quality of the research and the validity of its results;</li> <li>5. Realize the roles of the different agencies, HEIs, and health care institutions, to strengthen the response and research capacity of the region.</li> </ol> The sessions will be spearheaded by luminaries in public health, health researchers, academicians, and social scientists. Panel discussions will be held to learn the feedback and queries from the participants, from the point of view of being immersed in the grassroots, and point out solutions to their current and arising concerns as to how they can be better capacitated to conduct researches in health. The sharings of the panel of reactors will substantially describe the best practices of institutions along research capacitation.
